Whither are we drifting?

Anyhow Schoolmaster Wilson is trying hard enough to make good.

Ohio and Kentucky are another example of the old saying that "misery loves company"—each has a legislature in session.

In the last year 41,620 books were published in Japan, while Germany, the most bookish of European nations, had only 31,281 volumes to her credit.

THIS IS LEXINGTON TALKING!

The forty "doll girls," whom Richard Carle and Hattie Williams brought to Lexington yesterday for their performance at the Lexington Opera House last night, were the most beautiful women seen at the Phoenix Hotel in a long time. Every one of the women appeared well bred and refined, and their gowns were the last word of the modiste's art. —Lexington Herald.

GOOD BILL TO MAKE GOOD LAW.

The anti-pandering bill introduced by Mr. Walton provides that the consummation of marriage is no bar to criminal prosecution of the alleged "wrong-doer" or to the admission of the alleged victim's testimony, says the Frankfort State Journal.

Bernard Shaw in the first act of "Man and Superman" brings out brightly the absurdity of the point of view of persons who believe that if the seducer marries the victim all has ended well. But Mr. Shaw's argument does not touch upon the fact that in the majority of such cases marriage is a pure farce, which may be practiced for the benefit of man. The law does not compel, and cannot compel, the man to make amends by carrying out the provisions of the marriage ceremony. Even a law fixing a minimum time limit for the continuance of marriage relation and the support of the woman as the condition of the defendant's escape from prosecution is ineffective to secure the woman from the ill consequences of misfortune.

The Walton bill is a humane measure which deserves consideration.

ANOTHER DISCOVERY.

What is more cruel than the reckless publication of stories that cures have been found for incurable diseases. How many times has a "cure" for cancer been discovered? And yet a distinguished cancer specialist died at Buffalo after a $125,000 operation with radium had been performed.

Now a cure for "tabes" has been discovered. "Tabes" is the general condition which manifests itself in locomotor ataxia and general paresis.

These tragic manifestations of derangement of the central nervous system have been regarded as incurable, although their course is sometimes what physicians call "benign" in that it is slow and unaccompanied by great suffering. It is said, and published broadcast in dispatches from New York that a serum has been discovered which is successful in the treatment of "tabes," and that a man whose mind had collapsed from paresis has been cured.

The course of "tabes" is sometimes remittent, but always progressive. For that reason there is often more of an appearance of cure than real cure. If a remedy has been discovered one of the greatest medical problems has been solved, but that it has been extremely doubtful, and a premature publication can only add to the tragedy of affliction, the sickening pangs of hope destroyed. —Frankfort State Journal.

The first apartment house in America was built shortly before the Civil War in East Eighteenth street, in New York City, and is still standing in good condition.

Belgium has adopted specific rates of duty on cotton fabrics instead of ad valorem rates formerly levied. In pursuing this course greater wisdom has been shown than was manifested in the Democratic tariff legislation.

The State of Washington is discovering what has long been known in every other country having an accident compensation law, and that is, accidents increase when they are provided for by legal enactment. Defenders of the measure may sneer and ask, "Do men deliberately injure themselves for the sake of the compensation?" Be that as it may, the fact remains that the increase of approximately 40 per cent, in the total number of accidents since the law went into force in Washington is not an unusual experience. The number is doubtless swollen by including minor casualties of a kind not previously reported, but there are other factors at work.

SOUND PHILOSOPHY.

A homegrown philosopher in Garden City is quoted by the Telegram as saying: "We came into the world weeping, while the people stood around the bed smiling; let us go out of the world smiling while our friends stand around the bed weeping." —Kansas City Star.

"MATTERS OF INTEREST CONCERNING THE THEATRICALS."

Tragedy and comedy both originated in Greece some 500 years B. C. The early Roman dramatic writers belong to a little later period.

The drama was introduced into England by Geoffrey, a Frenchman. He was the Abbot of St. Albans. He produced with the aid of his priests and scholars "The Miracles of St. Catherine." This was in 1110 A. D.

In 1378 a petition was presented to King Richard II. by the scholars of St. Paul's School praying that some persons be prohibited from representing publicly the history of the Old Testament.

The first English tragedy worthy of consideration was by Thomas Sackville and called "Gorboduc." It was acted before Queen Elizabeth on January 18, 1562, and printed in 1563.

The first Italian comedy was Baccio's "Timone," produced before 1494, but the pastoral drama by Agnolo Poliziano, entitled "Orfeo," appeared in 1472. In the same year the first Spanish comedy was written.

The first Italian opera is said to be "Daphne," which dates from about 1594.

The first patent to act plays was granted by Queen Elizabeth in 1574 to James Burbage, the father of the great tragedian, Richard B. Burbage, an actor in the Earl of Leicester's company.

The first theater built in London was erected on the site of what is now Holywell Lane, Shoreditch. The cost of the building was between six hundred and seven hundred pounds.

The Theater Royal, Drury Lane, was built in 1663, and the noted Lincoln's Inn Theater was erected in 1672.

At the present time there are no fewer than sixty-four theaters in London alone and sixty-six variety theaters. In addition to these there are many other halls licensed for dramatic performances.

The library of the British Museum contains upwards of six hundred thousand play bills bound in three hundred and forty volumes.

HE PASSED ALL RIGHT.

There were some questions in geography required in the preliminary examinations for law students who aspired to admission to the bar. "Name ten animals that live in the Arctic zone." One young man wrote: "Five polar bears and five seals."

N. B.—Permit me to call your attention to the fact that the question does not specify that the animals should be of different varieties. He passed.—Christian Intelligencer.

T. A. Bell, who moved to Dayton, O., a few weeks ago, arrived here the latter part of last week, and his family and household goods will arrive this week. Tom says that Dayton might suit some, but Germantown is good enough for him.

THE CITY OF IT

Are Not These Poor Women Deserving of Assistance From Mayville and Her People?

In Mayville there live two respected old ladies. Years ago by, the husband and father was a hardworking, skillful mechanic. He worked in several of the plants in Mayville. By industry and economy he managed to accumulate a little home and a small sum for the rainy days.

He told his wife she should never want, and he meant it. But before all was accomplished death knocked at the door.

He was gone.

In a short time, the little sum laid by for the rainy day was gone, too.

The widow left alone in her old age and declining years has parted from trinkets and keepsakes one after another, until little is left. Home going down, in need of repairs, yet when she asks for them from her city, she is denied. Some few say for her to go to the poor house.

Is it not strange, that after a man has labored and spent his best years in a trade for the benefit of a city, though humble it may be, that there is no provision for those whom he had loved and left behind penniless?

There is a watch, an old heirloom being chanced off—we do not believe in chance, but here is one that justifies itself.

If any reader of this article wishes to help these worthy people, The Ledger will cheerfully see to it that it reaches them.
